

Dr. Kevin Courville had a vision to more efficiently treat patients at risk of heart failure using technology. Vinformatix developed and implemented the solution. From three bullets of an idea, our partnership created the following:

- A secure web and mobile application that collated and processed patient entered data
- Physician alerts driven by algorithms using patient medical history, medications, collected vitals, and other parameters
- A communication tool, streamlining secure, online patient / physician discussions

